

Part IV: Exhibits

Exhibit 10.6.1 The survey summary of stakeholder

Assessment Report of Master of Science in Applied Behavioral Science Research

Numchai Suparoekchaisakul and Sudarat Tuntivivat

The data in this report based on the survey which aimed to collect data about satisfaction of current students and graduates of this curriculum. Respondents were 20 graduates and 25 current students. In the opinion of graduates presented in 3 aspects as follow the most remarkable characteristic of this curriculum's students were considering ethic through every step of research process, the most outstanding instructor's characteristic was professional spirit and deeply willing to do academic role, and the most notable teaching and learning process was international standard thesis examination compare to other academic organizations. Current students expressed their opinion for the same 3 issues showed that operating researches following regulations, law, society concord and moral were the most outstanding of MS students, expertise in the specific area was the remarkable attribute for curriculum instructors and learning through instructors' design practice was splendid teaching and learning method.